Growth significantly outperformed Value

In October, Growth dominated the top five performing strategies, whereas the bottom five ones were mostly value strategies. Projected 5-Yr EPS Growth led, whereas Low Price/Book lagged for the month as well as year-to-date. On average, Growth strategies outperformed Valuation over 1000 basis points year-to-date.

Financials = value traps

The bottom three performing valuation strategies all had considerably higher weight in Financials stocks than the market (19.8%). In screens for October, Low Price/Book had 45% weight, while both Forward and trailing earnings yield had over 60% weight in Financials stocks. In our value trap model, we have also noticed a strong overweight in financials' industries. See Value Trap Alert (November 8, 2007).

Foreign Exposure - good run, more to come

Foreign Exposure has returned 18 percent year-to-date and is the third best performing strategy. This basket may represent one of the least expensive global growth plays, and is also likely to benefit from expectations of continued weakness in the US dollar. See "US Stocks for global growth revisited" (November 9, 2007).

Average Year-to-date performance by strategy group as of 10/31/07
